Signature Statement visits Middelgrundens wind turbines, 2018

The trip out to the mills and the climb up in them is both a physical challenge and an experience out of the ordinary, but it is also a practical and security challenge. Therefore, it is essential that all guests read this statement carefully and agree to the these conditions and precautions. Persons under 18 may participate if accompanied by a parent who must stand as a signatory below. This statement is part of the COOP’s emergency plan.

When ascending the mill requires that:
- I am not under the influence of alcohol, medicine, or drugs.
- I do not suffer from claustrophobia or fear of heights.
- I do not suffer from circulatory disturbances, dizziness, epilepsy, etc. and that.
- I am in good physical shape and not have significantly reduced mobility.

I must pay attention to the markings that are set up in different parts of the mill and respect the instructions given by the guides and staff. At the latter’s in turbines applies that there may be only one person at each section, a maximum of three people on each floor (there are 11 floors) and a maximum of 18 people up in the nacelle.

To ensure a steady flow of guests in the mill, it is important that the fastest guests climb up first, but waiting to study the interior of the tower until they are on their way back down. Generally, you must give way to the guests coming down, except if you get a different answer from the guides.

Secure loose objects such as mobile phone, camera, video, etc. to be carried in a pocket or small bag with zipper. It is recommended to take rings or to take work gloves while climbing on ladders.

When passing from the vessel to the turbine foundation, both hands to be free, and the instructions of the guard and the ship’s crew must be strictly followed.

Because of risk of dirt and grease in the boat and wind turbines, it is recommended that you wear practical clothes and shoes with rigid non-slip soles. In addition, you should bring a rain jacket (if weather forecast gives risk of rain), a bottle of water and some fruit or chocolate.

In addition to these formal measures, we hope that all guests will positively contribute to the event by being patient in the event of delay and by showing respect for the other guests, so we all have a good experience with us home.

I certify by my signature that I agree with the above conditions and to the whole event takes place at your own risk and that there cannot be any liability claim against Middelgrundens Wind Coop. I do so in relation to the destruction or theft of clothing or personal items.
